Roy Douglas

Chairman of the Campaign and Emeritus Reader at the University of Surrey, Roy has degrees in science but later qualified as a Barrister. He has written fifteen books on modern history, with others in active preparation.

In recent years he has specialised in the study of political cartoons as historical source material. He stood as a parliamentary candidate for the Liberal Party on five occasions.

Mark Wadsworth

Director of operations.

Henry Law

Henry is responsible for the running of the LVTC web site. He took a degree in Chemistry but subsequently worked as a town planner dealing primarily with urban conservation and design. His writing has been published extensively in professional journals on architecture, planning and transport including "Building Design", "Architect's Journal" and the former Council of Industrial Design's periodical, "Design". Lives in Gothenburg, Sweden.

David Mills

David worked for 27 years with a major international petroleum company. Involved in operational programming, facilities planning, capital project appraisal, and diversification activities. This was followed by five years in management of non-domestic property, particularly small industrial and office units. He is a founder member of Land Value Taxation Campaign and Editor of the Campaign's bulletin, "Practical Politics", since its inception in 1988.

Constitution of the LVTC

The constitution of the Land Value Taxation Campaign was adopted on 14 August 1991 as amended at Annual General Meeting 29 October 2008.

Please read or download the full document here: LVTC Constitution.